Are you ready?

Learn how to safely and confidently respond to natural gas or electrical-related hazards.

First Responder e-Learning Program

National Grid's First Responder Utility Safety Training is a free, self-paced training program. It makes sure that you – and everyone you ride with – can quickly, safely and confidently respond to natural gas and utility-related hazards.

The course is modular, and can be done a step at a time, as your busy schedule permits. Fully complete all training modules and receive a certificate of completion.
